DISCOVER HSD THERMAL PROTECTION DEVICE

HSD Mechatronics designs, produces and sells electro spindles, 2-axis milling heads and technologically advanced components for machining metal, alloys, composite materials and wood. It boasts a structure of 8,000 sq. metres, organised according to the principles of “just-in-time” production. It has its HQ in Italy, and 5 branches located in the main market countries.

To meet the various needs of our customers, the range of HSD products has been enriched by a Thermal Protection Device.

This tool has been designed to fully protect torque motors from the risk of overtemperature problems without having to connect all their individual heat probes, but simply by connecting the emulated output of the THPD module.

As a matter of fact, our Thermal Protection Device boasts unique characteristics:

- Management of up to 6 temperature inputs;
- Possibility to configure Kty and PT1000 inputs;
- Possibility to configure PT1000 or Kty emulated output;
- High immunity to EMC disturbance;
- High precision;
- Digital outputs for fault signalling.
